

Contents

I.	Introduction.....	1
	Overview and related Joint Forum work.....	1
	Working definitions of risk concentrations.....	2
II.	Key observations.....	3
III.	Silo risk management structures, using traditional approaches.....	5
	Risk category silo structures.....	5
	Traditional risk management approaches.....	5
	Summary of risk concentration management practices per risk category.....	6
	Credit risk.....	6
	Market risk.....	7
	Insurance risk.....	8
	Liquidity risk.....	8
	Operational risk.....	9
	Considerations.....	9
IV.	Implications of the growth of risk transfer markets and the trend towards more active management of financial conglomerates' risk exposures.....	11
	Areas of increasing importance for risk concentration identification and management.....	11
	Considerations.....	16
V.	The integration and corporate governance process.....	17
	Continuing trend towards closer integrated risk management.....	17
	Corporate governance aspects of the integration.....	19
	Challenges to integrated risk management.....	20
	Considerations.....	21
VI.	Economic capital and stress testing as management tools.....	22
	Economic capital models.....	22
	Limitations of the economic capital models to capture risk concentrations.....	23
	Considerations.....	24
	Stress testing and scenario-analyses.....	25
	Advantages and disadvantages of stress testing and scenario-analysis.....	26
	On the stress tests performed.....	27
	Considerations.....	33
	Annex 1 Current regulatory requirements relating to risk concentrations.....	35
	Annex 2 List of members of the WG on Risk Assessment and Capital.....	42